

Sanitarium, California,

July 31, 1914.

Elder J. E. White,
Marshall, Michigan.

Dear Brother Edson,---

The noon mail brings me your letter of July 26. Also one making inquiry regarding the stereopticon outfit which you furnished us some years ago.

The stereopticon outfit was turned over to Doris Robinson, and I have laid your letter regarding it on his desk. I think that a portion of this outfit was stolen at a time when we left it for a few days at the Sanitarium. We will report more fully later. Yesterday I read your good letter to Brother Mason.

Your letters of July 14, 20, and 26, which I hold in my hand, all relate to art material which you have sent to Pacific Press. For two weeks I have been planning to visit Mountain View, but have not yet found the time. After I have made that visit, I will write you regarding the art work.

Sara tells me that Mother received a good letter from you to-day. Mother is recovering slowly from the weakness which came upon her about two weeks ago. She rides out each day, but is able to read only a very little. We are praying that her strength may be restored, and that she may continue to give us counsel and instruction.

We rejoice to know that Emma is a little better. We are glad that Carrie Brown is with you.

Yours in haste,

W. C. White