Dear Sir:

I realize that Mrs. White is quoted for statements she never did or even would make. But there is one observation that she is suppose to have made that I would like for you to check on.

Once I was told that Ellen White advised a girl who was eating in an SDA school (?) cafeteria to eat what was set before he and to not be so fanatical as to refuse to eat a bite of food that did not meet the girl's diet standards.

My question is this: did Mrs. White ever give advice similar to the above? or not? I would certainly appreciate your checking this out for me.

Sincerely,

Wilma McClarty
