

From your brother waiting for Jesus.

James White.

[h]c

P.S. In your letter you say "Sister W. mentions God spoke the day and hour of Jesus' coming," and you inquired "I should like to know if it is to be spoken before we all hear it." To this question I answer by writing Ellen's words that she has just spoken while lying on the bed beside my writing stand. "Tell her that none hear the voice until all hear it. Then every living child of God will hear and know the voice of God as He gives us the day and hour. Then joy and glory will fill every heart." J. W.

This letter was laid in the drawer and I intended to mail it last Thursday. On Thursday I mailed a number and I thought this with the others; but while packing up to come to this place I found this letter. Here I shall take the liberty to state to you that my wife has a young son, a week old tomorrow. Why I state this is, I learn from Brother Bates that you are a full believer in Ellen's visions therefore interested for her. She is very well, also the babe. God has been with her in power, for years Ellen has been subject to fainting spells. She has had many the year (last Monday) that we have been married. It was the opinion of our unbelieving neighbors that she would die in one of her faint spells, but to the astonishment of all she has not had a faint spell for two weeks. For myself I had not a fear. I as little expected her death, as I expected the sun to fall to the earth. I knew she would live for God had shown her in vision that her work was not done up for the little flock.

This morning Brother S. Howland, at whose table I am writing, received an excellent letter from Brother Bates. He and Brother Gurney were going to Middletown, Conn. to attend a believers' Conference. Brother B. seems in good spirits and doing
